INVITATION

to the 32nd International Symposium "Deltas and Wetlands" 2025

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

It is our great honor to invite you to the 32nd edition of the International Symposium "Deltas and Wetlands" 2025, which will be held in Tulcea, Romania, between May 12 - 16, 2025, under "Deltas and Wetlands DDNI Scientific Event Community".

Through the "Deltas & Wetlands" International Symposium, we would like to send a clear signal about the importance of protecting, restoring and preserve the health of our ocean and waters by 2030 and to take concrete actions. Thus, we are multiplying the opportunities for networking, exchanges of experiences, collaboration and increasing visibility for achieving the objectives of Mission Ocean and Waters related to research and innovation, upscaling, deployment and replication of solutions through citizens-science, communities of practice, awareness raising and participatory approaches.

The Symposium is structured in 4 main sections, covering a large range of research fields: biodiversity assessment, aquatic ecology, natural resources, ecological restoration and human impact, Mission Ocean - new research approaches, GIS and Application System Modeling. The participants will have the opportunity to communicate their research results through oral presentations and posters.

The agenda of the event integrates:

- Plenary presentations of personalities from the scientific world (Keynote Speakers),
- Scientific communications (oral and posters) in the 4 sections,
- Green Deal Challenges - Decarbonising Danube Delta: 3D Initiative,
- Roundtables debate, PICO - Business approaches
- Posters presentations, Symposium Interviews,
- Application in the Danube Delta Biosphere Reserve.

We would like this event to be an absolutely memorable one, that offers to participants a meeting place where experience and knowledge can be shared and exchanged, whether they are researchers, private companies or government institutions.

We would be honored if you would participate in the event as Speaker, contributing to the conservation of the Danube Delta, one of the largest European wetlands known for its biodiversity and unique habitats, hosting an amazing range of habitats and life forms, a real museum of biodiversity, a natural genetic bank with incalculable value for the worldwide natural heritage. Kind regards,

General Director
Dr. Biol. Marian TUDOR
